

Impact & Trauma Of Racism

Tuesday, August 4, 2020 | 12pm ET/9am PT | 3pm ET/12pm PT

Many Black people in the U.S. are born into a life of trauma, and this trauma is born from a history of repression, violence, injustice, and inhumanity. This trauma is not something any of us who have not been Black in America can ever fully understand; it is a very personal, lived experience.

The goal for this panel discussion is to begin to expose and discuss the adverse psychological and physical impact of racism, considering it "a fundamental cause of adverse health outcomes for racial/ethnic minorities and racial/ethnic inequalities in health" (Williams, Lawrence, & Davis 2019).
